

Privacy Notice

Why are you receiving this notice?

The General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”) (implemented across all EU member states from 25th May 2018) applies to the collection, processing and storage of personal data (including special category data – please see below) undertaken by organisations within the EU, as well as to firms outside the EU that handle personal data relating to individuals in the EU.

The GDPR has two key purposes: (a) to set guidelines for the collection, processing and protection of personal data and (b) to give individuals certain rights in relation to their personal data (such as to access and correct it and object to further processing).

This Privacy Notice, in respect of your relationship with us as a prospective investor or contact, is intended to ensure that you (where you are an individual) and, where you are not an individual, your individual directors, officers, employees and/or owners (“you”, or “your”) are aware of the categories of your personal data Sloane Robinson LLP and its affiliates (“Sloane Robinson”, “we”, “us” or “our”) may collect, how we collect it, what we use it for and with whom we share it in accordance with the GDPR. Where you, the prospective investor or contact, are not an individual please provide a copy of this Privacy Notice to those individual directors, officers, employees and/or owners whose personal data we process.

By “personal data” we mean any information relating to you such as your name, contact details, bank account details, or investor profile. Personal data does not include data where you can no longer be identified from it such as anonymised aggregate data.

Sloane Robinson will be a data controller in respect of your relationship with us as a prospective investor or contact. A data controller is responsible for deciding how to hold and use personal data about you. We may process your personal data ourselves or through others acting as data processors on our behalf.

We may provide supplemental privacy notices on specific occasions when we are collecting or processing personal data about you so that you are fully aware of how and why we are using your personal data. These supplemental notices should be read together with this Privacy Notice.

If you have any questions about this Privacy Notice please contact legal@sloanerobinson.com in the first instance.

What information do we collect about you and what do we use it for?

Personal data held by us may include, but is not necessarily limited to, your name, residential address, place of business, email address, contact details, corporate contact information, signature, employment and job history, regulatory status, correspondence records, details relating to your investment activity or preferences.

The purposes for which we may collect, store and use personal data about you and our ‘lawful basis’ for processing such data are set out in the table below. The law specifies certain ‘lawful bases’ for which we are allowed to use your personal data.

In addition to the uses above, please note that we may also process your information where we are required by law to do so or if we reasonably believe that it is necessary to protect our rights and/or to comply with judicial or regulatory proceedings, a court order or other legal process.

Special categories of personal data

There are more limited bases for processing special category personal data. This is personal data which reveals or contains racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious and philosophical beliefs, trade union membership, genetic data, biometric data, health data, sex life and sexual orientation.

We do not intend to actively collect special category data about you. Whilst we will use reasonable efforts to limit our holding of such data, please be aware that we may hold such data incidentally. For example, where:

- you volunteer special category data to us, such as if you send us an email containing special category data;
- documents gathered for legal / regulatory purposes contain special category data, such as a due diligence search from public sources which includes special category data.

What if you do not provide the personal data we request?

In some circumstances, if you do not provide us with certain information when requested, we may be limited or restricted in our ability to deal with you and may in some cases be prevented from complying with our legal obligations. Where we require your personal information to comply with anti-money laundering or other legal requirements, failure to provide this information means that we may not be able to engage with you.

Change of purpose

We will only use your personal data for the purposes for which we collected it (as identified in the above table), unless we reasonably consider that we need to use it for another reason which is compatible with the original purpose. If we need to use your personal data for an unrelated purpose, we will notify you and we will explain the legal basis which allows us to do so.

How do we collect this information?

We typically collect personal data about you when you provide information to us or others acting on our behalf when communicating or transacting with us in writing, electronically, or by phone. For instance, when you request forms or literature from us or otherwise correspond with us.

In addition, we may receive personal information about you from third parties, such as:

- public sources or information vendors;
- introducers or other intermediaries who market or provide services to you.

With whom will we share your information?

We may share your personal data with a third party where this is required by law, where it is necessary to perform our contract with you, or where we have another legitimate interest in doing so.

We will need to share your personal data with:

- other entities within our group as part of our regulator reporting activities in company performance, in the context of a business reorganisation or group restructuring exercise, for assistance in relation to marketing and business development;
- introducers or other intermediaries who market or provide services to you;
- professional advisers including lawyers, bankers, auditors and insurers to the extent such information is relevant to their performance of their services
- regulators;
- cloud service providers;
- any of our service providers where such information is relevant to their performance of such services.

We may share your personal data with third parties, for example in the context of the possible sale or restructuring of the business. We may also need to share your personal data with a regulator or to otherwise comply with applicable law or judicial process or if we reasonably believe that disclosure is necessary to protect our rights and/or to comply with judicial or regulatory proceedings, a court order or other legal process.

We may transfer the personal data we collect about you to non-EEA countries (including North America, Hong Kong, Switzerland and the remainder of Europe) where the parties listed above are based for the purposes outlined in the table above. Those countries may not have the same standard of data protection laws as the EU.

Where this is the case, unless an exemption applies, we will seek to put in place appropriate safeguards where possible, such as the EU-approved standard contractual clauses to ensure that your personal data is treated in a manner that is consistent with and respects the EU and UK laws on data protection. If you require further information about this you can request it from legal@sloanerobinson.com.

How long will we retain your information?

We will retain your personal information for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes for which it was collected, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, regulatory, accounting or reporting requirements and our legitimate interests in maintaining such personal information in our records. This will normally include any period during which we are dealing or expect to deal with you and what we consider to be a suitable period thereafter for our internal record-keeping purposes. In doing this we will have regard to the amount, nature, and sensitivity of the personal data, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure of your personal data, the purposes for which we process your personal data and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal requirements. If you would like further details regarding retention periods in respect of your personal data please contact legal@sloanerobinson.com.

In some circumstances we may anonymise your personal data so that it can no longer be associated with you, in which case it is no longer personal data.

Once we no longer require your personal data for the purposes for which it was collected, we will securely destroy your personal data in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

Accuracy of information

It is important that the personal data we hold about you is accurate and current. Please let us know if your personal data which you have provided, changes during your relationship with us.

Your rights in relation to your information

You have rights as an individual which you can exercise in relation to the information we hold about you under certain circumstances. These rights are to:

- request access to your personal data (commonly known as a “data subject access request”) and request certain information in relation to its processing;
- request rectification of your personal data;
- request the erasure of your personal data;
- request the restriction of processing of your personal data;
- object to the processing of your personal data;
- request the transfer of your personal data to another party.

If you want to exercise one of these rights please contact us at legal@sloanerobinson.com.

You also have the right to make a complaint at any time to a supervisory authority for data protection issues.

You will not usually have to pay a fee to access your personal data (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request for access is manifestly unfounded or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.

What we may need from you

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access the information (or to exercise any of your other rights). This is another appropriate security measure to ensure that personal data is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it.

Right to withdraw consent

In the limited circumstances where you may have provided your consent to the collection, processing and transfer of your personal data for a specific purpose, you have the right to withdraw your consent for that specific processing at any time. To withdraw your consent, please contact legal@sloanerobinson.com. Once we have received and processed the notification that you have withdrawn your consent, we will no longer process your information for the purpose(s) to which you originally consented unless we now have an alternative legal basis for doing so.

Changes to this privacy notice

We reserve the right to update this privacy notice at any time, and we will make an updated copy of such privacy notice available to you and notify you when we make any substantial updates. We may also notify you in other ways from time to time about the processing of your personal data.

Further information

This Privacy Notice was written with brevity and clarity in mind and is not an exhaustive account of all aspects of our collection and use of personal data. If you require any further information, please do not hesitate to contact legal@sloanerobinson.com.
